PRESERVATION OF CIVILIZATION THE MAIN ISSUE

United Effort a Necessity to Gain Victory, Says Dr. A.
W. Thornton.

THE SELFISH ARE FLEYED

Those Gaining Benefits From War Contracts Subjected to Castigation by Speaker.

A practical talk in connection with the war based on a passage of Scripture was delivered in the American Presbyterian Church yesterday morning by Dr. A. W. Thornton, of the department of dentistry. Dr. Thornton, who has recently returned from England and France, has had considerable opportunity of viewing conditions in both countries, and has been wonderfully impressed with the appearance and condition of those men who have been sacrificing everything in the service of their country. Especially did he speak highly of the Canadian troops now in England. Dr. Thornton was present at the review of the Canadian soldiers now in England by the King, and visited several hospitals, and can speak authoritatively of the spirit and satisfaction of the men.

Dr. Thornton's first reference was to Romans, 12, 18: "If it be possible, as much as lieth in you, live peacefully with all men." The speaker impressed on the congregation the phrase, "If it be possible." Germany a little over a year ago refused to settle the controversy peacefully and resorted to arms. The other nations concerned were left to decide in what position they stood, and how they would be affected in the final outcome. Those who foresaw how vital an outcome contrary to their national principles would be were thus forced to take part in the struggle. Jesus Christ when he came on earth knew that there was to be a continual strife between right and wrong. He knew that this controversy could not be always settled by peaceful means, and in Matthew 10, 34, He expresses this view: "Think not that I am come to send peace on earth. I came not to send peace, but a sword." There are times when men should go on their knees before God, but there are also times when every man should stand up on his feet and be a man. When one is attacked by another without apparent cause, he should acquit himself as befits a man and defend himself.

Dr. Thornton referred to the passage in 2 Kings 5, 26: "Is it a time to receive money and to receive garments, and olive yards and vineyards, and sheep and oxen and men-servants and maid-servants?" In connection with this passage he spoke of some of the things in Canada which were not creditable to the country at the present time. Some are privileged to serve their country at the front, but those who are unable to go have also their duty to perform at home. He mentioned especially the fact that there were several in their dealings with the Government at the present time who were doing all within their power to benefit and enrich themselves at the expense of their country when all resources are needed as defence against a powerful enemy. Are these men doing their duty, and are they living up to this passage of Scripture?

The last reference was to Hebrews 11, 37: "By faith, Abraham, when he was tried, offered up Isaac." People up to the present time had only slightly understood this passage, but in this time of strife and trial they can understand what a multitude of sacrifices this one word "Isaac" means. When war broke out there were many people who thought that evangelical churches would receive their death blow because war seemed such a contradiction of the teachings of the New Testament. If faith in God and in the principles of the New Testament failed the failure would not be on the part of those who were found in the trenches, but failure would be on the part of those at home leading the ordinary selfish lives that have characterized the nations of the world during recent years.

Dr. Thornton had an opportunity of coming in contact with many officers, both British and Canadian, and the testimony of all these men was that service at the front and on the firing line developed the best that was in a man. Men who have been to the front and have done their bit are men who are thoughtful and who are not loud-mouthed or blasphemous. Officers who have watched these men and lived with them are all free to state that there is no infidelity in the trenches, and that the very highest type of Christianity is manifested. He had visited more than a dozen hospitals in France and in England, and the one thing that stood out prominently was the unflinching courtesy of the men to each other and the effort of every man to be of service to his wounded comrade who could not wait on himself.

The one feature that stood out prominently and about which there could be no controversy is the fact that one party to the struggle must be victorious, and the principles of the victorious party will dominate the world for generations to come. The principles manifested by Germany are those shown in her dealings with Belgium since the day war was declared, and in the atrocities perpetrated in her

STUDENTS ARRESTED

Trouble Caused When Amusement
Place Was Entered Without Payment of Fee.

Two McGill students, who forced an entrance to a Bleu street place of entertainment on Saturday night without paying the requisite entrance fee, were subsequently placed under arrest by a squad of plain clothes men who had been summoned by the proprietor, and were only released after the admission fee was forthcoming from the pockets of several classmates present. Trouble appeared imminent for a time, but students and policemen were finally pacified without any serious friction.

RAILWAY CLUB HOLD POPULAR BREWERY TRIP

Many Members of Club See
Through Large Frontenac Factory.

MACHINES INSPECTED

Many Devices Used to Prevent Products Being Touched by Hand.

On Saturday afternoon the Railway Club held its first excursion of the year, the visit being made to the Frontenac Breweries. The plant is modelled from one of the large breweries in the States, and is said to be the last word in design and construction.

The members were first led into the manager's office, where they were met by Mr. Wilkinson, the treasurer, and Mr. Clements, the chief salesman, who extended every possible courtesy to them. Proceeding first into the bottling room, the club saw how the bottle progressed from the washing machine, through the various stages until they appeared filled, capped, labelled and pasteurized. The kegs were next inspected and found to be of steel construction lined with a thickness of cork, one of porcelain and finally one of glass, so that at no time is the beer exposed to any but a glass surface.

The filtration plants, refrigeration plant and storage tanks were then visited. Taking an elevator to the top floor, the malt rooms and hop rooms were examined. It was seen how the malt and water were mixed in huge tanks, whence they passed into the big copper brew kettle. This kettle alone cost $25,000. The process was followed from tank to tank until the enormous storage tanks were reached, holding 5,800 gallons each. There were 20 of these tanks, all lined with glass. The party was then led to the modern, spotlessly clean power house. This in itself was a point of great interest. A little informal meeting was now held in a picturesque Swiss chalet contained within the shipping room. Here the various grades of the product were sampled by those of the members who considered themselves particularly qualified to pass judgment on the quality of the goods. Some very excellent stories were told, followed by a few rousing songs, after which the meeting gave three cheers to the management, and adjourned.

The Dental Society will hold a social evening to-night at 8.15, in the New Medical Building. A short business session will be followed by an illustrated lecture by Dr. A. W. Thornton on his trip to England and his visit to France. The graduates of the years 1914-15 have been invited, and a large number is expected to attend the first informal gathering of the society.

submarine warfare, her Zeppelin raids, her murder of the innocents—women, children and nurses. In short, Germany stands for disregard of the virtues which the Anglo-Saxons have exalted for centuries—humility, care for the weak and feeble, service and self-sacrifice, which is the nearest approach to the Divine of which man is capable. Britain has stood for the very opposite. Protection of women and children first has ever been the cry when danger threatened either on land or sea. Service has been the keynote of the lives of those men who have stood highest in the estimation of the British people. The united service of all soldiers and civilians, young and old, is absolutely essential for the preservation of the civilization, the highest that the world has known, and for which Britain has stood for the past centuries.

STUDENTS ARE URGED NOT TO NEGLECT BIBLE

Rev. Dr. Hugh Pedley's Stirring
Appeal to Students to Exercise
Their Faith.

A CLEAR CALL TO DUTY

Great Possibilities for Country if Universities Become Saturated
With Christian Principles.

"Now what I am asking for is not a blatant profession, not that you shall sound a trumpet advertising your religion to the crowd, but simply that you will not hide it, that you will not be shame-faced over it. If it is time to go to church, go even if others consider themselves too superior for such a custom. If there is a Bible in your room do not hide it under a newspaper. If conversation is turning down a by-way to the gutter and the sewer, do not be ashamed to keep on the clean high-road. If invited to share in some course of conduct which you feel to be a violation of the law and spirit of Christ, let there be no doubt as to where you stand," were a few striking sentences from the sermon preached by the Rev. Dr. Hugh Pedley, in Emmanuel Church last night. It was a stirring appeal to students not to throw over the home faith which they bring to college, but to enrich it by the broader ideas that will be gained in intellectual activities.

Though the Bible is a book whose chief note is religious and moral, it is not oblivious of the intellectual side of life, stated Dr. Pedley. This comes in no various way, but very especially in certain personalities. In both Old and New Testament we find men who showed a wonderful combination of religious faith with a wide range of knowledge and a great intellectual vigor. Moses was a man who had two Alma Maters. Following his romantic childhood, the child Moses under the protecting hand of Pharaoh's daughter returned to the care of his mother. This was his first Alma Mater, his own mother breathing into him her own ancestral loyalty and her own deep faith in Jehovah. The second Alma Mater is embodied in Pharaoh's daughter. She represented the wisdom, culture, science, and university training of a nation whose treasures of Art and Literature are still the wonder of the civilized world. This was the religion from home and ancestral religion to the great new world of ideas, customs, companionships. This is the transition that takes place in our young men and women; the step from the home life to the wider and more complex life of the university and the city.

"Every Man is Religious."

He emphasized the fact that religion is fundamental to human nature. There are some who look upon religion as the possession of those people who are church members and show an interest in things that are labelled with the name of religion. This is a great mistake. Religion is a universal human interest. But with many there is something more than this fundamental religious instinct. There has been Christian training and not a few have gone further and made profession of your personal faith in Christ. But, whether it be in the more potential or the more positive form religion is in you the thing you feel to be the subject of all things. There are two possible effects upon this religion by your entrance into the life of the university.

Deterioration and Destruction.

There can be no doubt that there are men and women whose faith becomes dimmer, the sense of religious values becomes deadened. They have to confess that at the end of five years or even at the end of a single year that God is more remote. They grow indifferent to the church, they give up the custom of worship, they even make a practice of holding up religious people to derision. This falling away is due to various causes.

The causes may be false shame. A student may be thrown into a circle of companions where it is the fashion to speak lightly of sacred things, where Christian men and women are ridiculed as weaklings and yielding to this influence, cloaking and thereby smothering his convictions, he falls away from things high and holy.

The cause may be founded on scepticism. There can be no doubt that in college there must needs be a certain shaking up of a man's traditional faith. How many young men there are who come to college with the idea that religion is identical with certain doctrines and perhaps especially the doctrine, accuracy, and the authority of the Bible.

Taught to believe that the world was created in six days, he learns in his geology class that it is the result of unfolding that took many ages. Taught to believe that man was created perfect by an instantaneous feat of the Almighty about six thousand years ago, he finds that man has come up from savagery along a path of almost immeasurable length; so his old faith is shaken.

The cause may be a moral breakdown. All universities have their temptation, there is visibly present that leprous trinity, liquor, licentiousness or gambling. In falling to these

The Union—A Suggestion

The impression appears in some manner to have gained circulation that the men of the Fourth Universities Company, reinforcements to Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, who are now quartered at the McGill Union, are McGill's unwelcome guests. Too strong emphasis cannot be laid upon the fact that this idea is entirely and completely erroneous; the resolution adopted at the informal meeting of Union members held last week should do much to correct this impression, which, if allowed to gain credence, would show McGill students at the present time in a most unpleasant and highly undesirable light. The meeting expressed itself as being in complete sympathy with the men going overseas and as being desirous of offering the privileges of the Union and their "warm-hearted friendship and support" to the Universities Company. The only objection raised during the meeting was one of principle, care being taken to explain that the objection was not in the nature of a "kick" and that it was not brought about by any ill-feeling towards the soldiers or by begrudging any of the privileges which they enjoy. Several present expressed the opinion that the students as a body should have been consulted before the privileges of their club, the Union, were handed over to the Universities Company. It will be interesting to see what will be done in this regard when the time comes for the formation of a Fifth Universities Company.

With the matter of the occupation of the Union by the soldiers now disposed of to the satisfaction of everyone concerned, there now arises the question of what is to be done with regard to the University men who are serving in other units in training in the city. Should not the same privileges granted to the Universities Company be granted also to students serving in the ranks of other regiments? There must be college men, and many of them, in these units who are without such privileges as these and who would welcome the opportunity of being allowed to make the Union their headquarters off duty. There they might mix with men of kindred interests and be able to enjoy a quiet read or "shoot" a game of pool or billiards with students from McGill or other Universities. It would be but courtesy, and a gracious act on the part of the Union governing body, were an invitation to be extended to all University men serving in the city in overseas units to avail themselves of the privileges of the students' social centre. Such action would be only in line with the course already pursued and would meet with the approval of all those who have devoted any attention to the matter.

Editorial Notes

The University of South Carolina at Columbia in its extension bulletin quotes the following words of its former president, Dr. S. C. Mitchell: "The university is the focal point where the moral energies of democracy converge and where the mind of the people gathers its strength to impart an inspiring impulse to youth for the enrichment of to-morrow."

Attention is called to the fact that the first of the meetings of the Students' Council to be held under the new regulation providing for open meetings will be held this evening, commencing at 7.15. Unfinished business will first be disposed of by the Council in private, when those having suggestions or criticisms will be admitted and a discussion on these matters conducted. Every student who has paid the Universal fee is at liberty to attend.

Stolen from the Library on Saturday morning one overcoat. Stolen from the Strathcona Hall on Thursday night, one overcoat.

Stolen from the Wesleyan College recently two overcoats, one umbrella and a note book.

Every body has its parasite nuisances and McGill University is not exempt. Certain sneaking insects in human form have deprived the college of one valuable privilege, and now continue their deprivations in more concrete form, such as overcoats, etc. The library seems to be a favorite ground for this breed though even the theological colleges and Christian Associations do not seem to be unfertile.

GRADUATES' DEPARTMENT

"THE DAILY" IN THE KAMERUNS

W. G. Robertson, Med. '03, Is Pleased to Receive Copy of the Special Issue.

HAS CHARGE OF HOSPITAL

Royal Navy Has Done Splendid Work in Winning West Africa for the British.

In charge of a hospital at Uyo River, West Africa, made of palm mats and corrugated iron, is William Graeme Robertson, Med. '03, who has written to the secretary of the Graduates' Society as follows:

Uyo River Hospital, Uyo River, Kamerun, West Africa.

Dear Sir,—You cannot think what a very pleasant and unexpected surprise I had yesterday, when H.M.S. Rinaldo arrived with our rare, uncertain, but ever welcome, mail, and I received a copy of the McGill Daily with supplement. It was a great joy to me, and I am very glad to hear Old McGill is doing so nobly. I would like to send my subscription to the society, and also a donation, but unfortunately no one here has any money or cheque-books, rice and tobacco being the only negotiable article out of Duala. I suppose you haven't heard anything of the Kameruns, but the fighting here is in a small way, but very fierce. We hold the whole coast line, the capital and chief cities, and our columns are now converging on Gaunde and Ebolowa where the enemy will make their final stand, and I fancy their end is near. It may be of interest to you to know that the general in command of all operations out here is a Canadian, Gen. Dobell, of Quebec, and is proving himself a very able man. I have passed The Daily on to Col. Statham, who is in charge of the medical branch with headquarters at Duala, where we have a very fine hospital. It fell with the town to H.M.S. Challenger, and we took it over in toto, patients, instruments, everything intact, and you know how well equipped are the German hospitals.

When the war is over this will form a very interesting part of the history, as, like Togoland, it is being taken practically by the navy—outside of the marines and Germans all troops are blacks from Nigeria officered by white men. We took this river four months ago, and now we hold it with small motor boats, armored and armed, captured from the enemy. Two months ago I built this small hospital, and, considering the conditions out here, we are doing extremely well. The black boys make very good "nurses" and attendants, and the men like them.

When I can I will send you a photo of Uyo River, showing the officers' house, ward room, hospital and barracks, all constructed of palm mats and German corrugated iron.

Please excuse paper and pencil—the former is German, and we have no ink. Please put me down as a subscriber to The Daily and for membership in the society.

Announcement

It is a pleasure for the Committee in charge of the Graduates' Department of The Daily to be able to state that Mr. W. B. Scott, Law 1912, has kindly consented to supervise and edit the Graduates' Department, which, as arranged last week, is to form part of future Monday issues of McGill Daily. Under Mr. Scott's direction, and with the co-operation, which is earnestly solicited, of graduates both in and beyond Montreal, this department may be counted on to grow in interest and to become not only a source of information on University matters, but a convenient medium for an exchange of views between individual graduates.

Notes on the activities of graduates, especially of those at the front; correspondence; appropriate intelligence regarding all departments of the University; even queries concerning matters which come within the purview of the Graduates' Society, will be welcomed, and should be sent to

W. B. SCOTT, Editor, Graduates' Department, McGill Daily, Room 707, Royal Trust Bldg., Montreal.

STADIUM PHOTOS.

Of all the photographs which have been made of the Stadium, the one which appears on another page of this issue probably gives the best idea of its size and general appearance. This picture is particularly interesting in that it was taken on the day of the rush. Copies of this picture can be obtained from Heasley & Co. (next to the Imperial), who, by the way, are now preparing a photographic record of the McGill Battalion.

There are over fifty pictures in the set, covering the first parades, inspections by H.R.H. the Duke of Connaught, Premier Borden, field days on Mount Royal and at Ste. Anne's, etc. Announcement of these will be made later.

temptations they feel that they are parting company with religion. The other possibility is that of keeping one's religion by so using the discipline and opportunity of college life that our religion shall be strengthened, expanded, made more efficient. To produce this he gives certain counsels.

First assert your faith. There is a secret side to faith during the germinating process as with the plant, it does best when it is in the dark. But there comes a time when faith must have light, must come into the open—otherwise it will perish. Second, by communion with God, that is prayer. A third by worship, then to reading. The Bible is pre-eminently the book of religious value and inspiration, but there are other books with great thoughts and lofty ideals.

Exercise your faith, be sure it crystallizes itself into some definite action. Emerson has set forth the need of a noble idealism in the precept, "Hitch your wagon to a star," for our present purpose we might say, "Hitch your ideal to a star." Let the star-like ideal connect itself with some definite form of service of love. This may be done by becoming ministers or just as important, carrying Christianity into business and politics.

If we could get the universities of Canada saturated by Christian principles there would be great possibilities for our country. Dr. Pedley thinks this is coming to pass. He has lately been visiting some of the largest American colleges, Harvard, Yale and Columbia. He told how in Harvard, a large institution called the Phillips Brooks House had been erected for the centre of religious activities. Out of the total number of undergraduates, nearly one-half were enrolled in some definite form of social service. He noticed similar religious tendencies in the two other colleges that he visited.

GRADUATES ON ACTIVE SERVICE

Several Promotions Announced in Recent Official Orders.

LIEUT. MULOCK'S EXPLOIT

Flew Behind German Lines and Blew Up Shed Containing Zeppelins.

Major H. A. Chisholm, Med. '05, serving with the Army Medical Corps at the front, recently received the insignia of the Distinguished Service Order at the hands of King George at Windsor Castle. Dr. Chisholm is also a graduate of St. Francis Xavier College, Antigonish, N.S.

Lieut.-Colonel Lorne Drum, Med. '06, who is at the front with the Canadian Army Medical Corps, has been promoted to a temporary colonelcy in the same branch of the service. Major Campbell B. Keenan, Med. '07, who went across as surgeon-major of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, becomes a temporary lieutenant-colonel in the Canadian Army Medical Corps. Captain Francis W. E. Wilson, Med. '07, medical officer to the Canadian Mounted Rifles, receives the rank of major, as well as Capt. Robert Wilson, Med. '03, who has been acting as radiographer to No. 1 General Hospital, Canadian Expeditionary Force, and Captain C. A. Young, Med. '06, attached to No. 2 Stationary Hospital. These promotions are announced officially in recent orders.

Prof. J. C. Simpson, Arts '07, lecturer in anatomy and well-known to all in his capacity as acting adjutant of the C.O.T.C., was married in June last to Miss E. A. Roberts, Mr. and Mrs. Simpson are residing at No. 821 Lorne Crescent, where they are the recipients of the congratulations and good wishes of their many friends.

News of the exploits of Lieut. Redford H. Mulock, Sci. '09, at the front, have reached Montreal. Lieut. Mulock is attached to the Royal Army Flying Corps, and about a month ago flew from behind the British lines to Brussels, descended to within a few hundred feet of the ground and blew up the Zeppelin sheds there with the Zeppelins in them. A correspondent says that the commanding officer of Lieut. Mulock gave him a toast in the mess, and "Red" will get either the V.C. or the D.S.O. It is related that Lieut. Mulock had to fly 70 miles back from Brussels in pitch darkness, frightful rain and a blizzard. Lieut. Mulock crossed to England with the first Expeditionary Force, and was there transferred to the Flying Corps. He hails from Winnipeg.

The London Times, in an obituary of Lieut. Herrick Stevenson Duggan, Sci. '12, of the Royal Engineers, who was killed in action in France, remarks that he was a son of Mr. G. H. Duggan, of the Dominion Bridge Company, and was one of the most brilliant of the younger generation of Canadian civil engineers. He volunteered when war broke out, only to be refused four times on account of a weak heart.

Word has been received at the University of the promotion of Dr. Howard Hepburn, Med. '10, who a few years ago was medical superintendent of the Montreal General Hospital. Dr. Hepburn left Montreal for Slam, where for a year he was medical adviser to the King. Going to England, he attended a medical congress in London, which concluded shortly before the war broke out. He went to the front with one of the field hospitals of the Imperial service as lieutenant, and, with A. L. Lockwood, Med. '10, was one of the first Canadians to land in France.

Tilley S. Tupper, Med. '06, who has been in practice at Clareholm, Alta., has received a commission in a branch of the Army Medical Corps, now being organized in the west. He hails from Fredericton, N.B.

VIEW OF THE NEW MCGILL STADIUM ON SPORTS DAY

The Daily presents a cut, unfortunately omitted last Monday, of the magnificent new Stadium of which McGill is now the fortunate possessor. This cut was intended to supplement the description of the Stadium which appeared last week. It will, we are sure, interest graduates who do not reside in Montreal. Messrs. L. A. Ott & Co. were the contractors in charge of the work.

AVIATION STUDENT HURLED INTO LAKE

M. Lewis, Former McGill Student, Fell From His Machine Into Water.

An Ithaca despatch says that Mostyn Lewis, of Montreal, one of the students in the Thomas School of Aviation, was thrown thirty feet into Cayuga Lake from the seat of a machine which he was guiding at 9 o'clock the other morning, and escaped practically uninjured.

Lewis, who belonged to class of Science '11 at McGill, has been in Ithaca for several months as a student in the aviation course at the Thomas School and is considered an unusually adept pupil. After several trial flights within the past two weeks, during which he was declared ready for his test for a pilot's certificate, a time was fixed for the official record test under the rules provided by the Aero Club of America.

The morning was considered almost ideal for flying, there being practically no wind. Thirty pupils, instructors and official observers watched Lewis make two distance flights of over 16,000 feet, and then he started on an altitude record trial. Colonel C. A. Simmons, secretary of the Industrial Commission, who was present as representative of the Aero Club, examined the barograph, and Instructor Brock gave the word to Lewis to start. In view of his splendid landings in the two previous record tests, it seemed merely a formality for him to fly again.

After flying down the lake for two miles, Lewis turned, ascended to a height of about 600 feet, shut the motor off in accordance with requirements and started down. He miscalculated the distance, and the watchers suddenly saw the machine nose straight into the water. Lewis was hurled at least thirty feet, whirling over and over. He was seen to rise to the surface, pause, and finally swim back to the machine, which had turned completely over.

Boats put out from the shore, Lewis' friends rowing frantically to his rescue. For a time it seemed to the observers on shore, who were watching anxiously through glasses, that Lewis had sunk, as he had clambered into the machine and for some minutes was hidden from view.

Charles H. King, of Ithaca; James S. Maitland, W. R. Derby and others in boats reached Lewis in a little over five minutes.

"Sorry I smashed the machine for you, boys," was Lewis' greeting to them.

Asked how the accident happened, Lewis explained that the lake was so smooth that he entirely miscalculated the distance he was above the surface. He "levelled the machine," estimated he was at least 100 feet up, and "nosed over" for a further descension, when the crash came.

Lewis said that he had no idea what happened after that. Watchers who had glasses trained on him at the time said he was rolled up like a ball during the time he was being thrown clear of the wreckage. He was dazed upon coming to the surface, but made the swim back to the machine, which was being held afloat by the wings, without much difficulty.

Without waiting to see how much the machine was damaged, Lewis was immediately rowed to shore and hurried uptown for a change of clothing. Later boats hitched lines to the hydro-aeroplane and towed it to shore. It is almost a complete wreck. Wings, control, pontoon and tail are badly damaged. The engine was rescued and will be used in a new machine, which is being constructed at the factory.

STUDENT WAS STRANDED AT CARTIERVILLE

"Baldy" Did Not Have Means to Go Home From Geological Excursion.

A VERY INCIDENTAL DAY

Fussers Were in Force, and Members of Class Enjoyed Themselves.

There were more incidents connected with the excursion of the Geological Class on Saturday at Cartierville, than at all the other outings held this year. As is only natural in such a case, the members of the class amused themselves to a considerable extent, while the innocent sufferers, who were few in number, did not mind the laughs at all. Firstly, it was so cold out on Saturday morning, that the fellows had to find something to do in order that they might not freeze to death—not as bad as all that, but pretty near it. In order to warm up their systems and also to feed their stomachs, which seemed empty according to their later actions, they happened to spy an old apple tree near the spot where the lecturer was explaining to the class the origin of some kinds of rock. Well, to make a long story short, there was very little left of that tree when they got finished with it, for they took every solitary apple, and enjoyed themselves immensely eating them. Luckily, no farmer appeared, but the fellows sure were ready for him. Whether they took any note of what was taking place around them is a mystery, but according to our knowledge of the event, these students only knew that they were on some kind of an excursion, and that was where they got off.

But, gentle reader, do not imagine that this was the chief incident of Saturday's excursion. On the contrary, we have to announce to-day that according to the latest reports received along the roads leading to Cartierville, a poor student of Science '17 is walking slowly but surely to the regions known as Westmount. If he walks slow enough, we are quite certain that he will reach the geological room this morning just about in time for the lecture. But the fact remains that this student, who is known as "Baldy" around college, was stranded at Cartierville around the hour of twelve a.m., on Saturday, and whether he has left that town or not is hardly known at this moment. The cause of his being left in this little village, which according to certain well-known residents of this city is also a summer resort, is that "Baldy" came out to Cartierville without one solitary cent in his possession and missed a car containing all the students going home. How he ever missed the car is still a mystery to the entire class, as well as to the conductor, but he missed it and that settled him. The story is that when the members of the class assembled at the Cartierville station to take the car for Montreal, "Baldy" also climbed aboard, and asked one of his class-mates to be kind enough to loan him enough money to pay his fare home. Well, he easily found one among the generous lot of fellows in the class, and it was already decided that he would come home with the entire class. But no, fate was against this young student from Science '17, and through some unforeseen event, "Baldy" got off the car, and before he could look around this vehicle was in motion on its way to a place called Snowdon Junction. Can you imagine it? Gentle readers and students of McGill, one of our own left in Cartierville without enough means to bring him home? Well, we thought it was impossible until Saturday, but since then, we have entirely changed our opinions.

During the ride home, one of the Science students generously enough took some hard-earned coin from his pocket and handed same to the conductor with the instructions that if he found Baldy walking on the tracks to Montreal, he should pick him up and allow him to ride. Whether this conductor found him or not is only to be guessed at, as the student had also told the fare collector of the Montreal Tramways System that he could keep the money for himself if he should not discover our lonely student's place, gentle readers, and ask yourself the question as to what

'67 GRADUATE DEAD

Dr. John Brandon Was Last Surviving Member of His Class.

Dr. John Brandon, a veteran of 1866, an active practitioner and a prominent member of the I.O.O.F. for the past half century, and the last surviving member of Medicine 1867, passed away suddenly on Friday morning at the home of his son-in-law, Major C. T. De Kam, in Calgary, Alta. The veteran doctor, who was in his 75th year, is survived by one daughter and four sons, one of whom is William M., of Hamilton, Ont.

course you would take. We know ours, anyway! Well, this just about lets out "Baldy," and we would remind our readers and also all those interested in this case that further particulars as to his walk home will appear in later issues of this sheet.

As to some of the other things that happened at the excursion, we might mention the fact that one student from Arts (perhaps the only student from Arts) thought that at geological excursions the main thing to do is to snap pictures of the various pretty girls from the R. V. C., and as far as we could see that was all he did. Time after time this fellow would throw his little hammer away amongst the bushes, take out a big-sized camera and start snapping some of the pictures of the girls present. While snapping these pictures, this Arts student informs the Daily that he secured a picture of two girls falling off a pile of rocks. As we happened to mention this fact of the two girls falling, we will now describe it in a few words.

While examining some Anorthosite rocks, two of the ladies of the R. V. C., we won't mention names, climbed up on a pile of rocks, and started to dance or something like that. Now rocks are only rocks, and although they can stand a lot of hammering, they could not stand this funny work, and as a result they slipped from underneath their feet. What happened can not be told in words. It was action and action only. Fortunately the ladies were not hurt, and although they amused the fellows they did not mind it in the least.

Again, too, the fussers were in full force on Saturday, one young student being in the company of some of the girls for the greater part of the excursion. That he enjoyed himself goes without saying, but we would advise him not to let it happen again. That ends Saturday's geological excursion, but another is coming on Saturday next at Point Claire, and watch for details of the fun.

A Suggestion for Efficient Economy

Throughout the Empire has gone the call for personal economy to meet the extraordinary demands of the war. Here is a timely suggestion to men who have been spending from $25.00 to $75.00 a year on barber shop shaves:

Invest five dollars in a

GILLETTE Safety Razor

and shave yourself at home.

The saving will not be limited to money—the time you'll gain will be even more important, for the morning shave with the Gillette need not take more than five minutes.

And the comfort rivals the economy. Though you never shaved yourself before, you'll have no trouble in getting a clean, cool, safe shave with the Gillette Safety Razor. No more waiting your turn in the chair—no more breaks in the morning's work—no more dependence on unknown barbers when travelling, for the Gillette works anywhere.

Truly, the man with a Gillette is an efficient economist. Get one yourself to-day. "Bulldog", "Aristocrat" or Standard Sets cost $5. —Pocket Editions $5. to $6.—Combination Sets $6.50 up. Your Hardware Dealer or Jeweler will show you an assortment.

PRINCESS PATS CLOSE TO HUNS

J. A. Lalanne, a member of the class of Arts '17, and now a sergeant with the P.P.C.L.I. at the front, writes the following letter:

October 13, 1915.

Received your letter of September 14 a day or two ago. We were then in a trench about thirty yards away from the Huns. We were having a fairly quiet time there, except that once in a while we got a high explosive close by. Kilgour had the most quaint experience of us all. He says that he was sitting with two lighted candles on a board. The first shell burst and the concussion put out the two flames. He then lit one of them, and the bursting of the second shell put out that one and lit the other. It sounded like a miracle, but Kilgour claimed it was authentic.

We got a Standard that day, in which there was a picture of the Aux. battalion. There looked to be about 500 on parade. I suppose the Battalion had a good sports day, according to reports we have seen. I saw a picture of the new Stadium some time ago, and it looked great compared with the old. Is McGill giving up athletics this year? The last report we received was that Varsity was chucking them for the year.

Dobbie (R. M. Dobson) is with the signallers now, so I do not see him very often.

OTTAWA COLLEGE TEAM DISRUPTED

Most of Last Year's Players Have Left, Among Them Being Heney and Madden.

The Ottawa College hockey team of last year, which made such a successful tour of American cities, and which figured in a riot at Cleveland while playing the Cleveland A. C. in the Ellysium, has been badly disrupted, and the result is that there will be no senior team at the college.

To begin with, Doran, who figured in the nets, is at St. Francis Xavier, Antigonish, while Jack Fournier, who played point with the garnet and grey, turned professional, and is now a member of George Kennedy's Canadians. Yee Heney and Frank "Dink" Madden are now attending McGill College. Heney played cover point, while Madden was a substitute defence and forward man. It is expected that both these men will play with McGill this winter.

Teddy Behan, the former Pembroke player, has taken a position in the military camp at Petawawa, and the only members of the original team left at college are Red Quain and "Mutt" Lally. Eddie Nagle and Jack Grimes are free lances in the city, both having left school.

FACULTY GAMES

Representatives to be Elected to Choose Rugby Teams.

The game on Wednesday next between Arts '18 and Science '16 will bring the inter-class series to a close, and as a result the inter-faculty games will start shortly after. The presidents of the various faculties are, therefore, requested to hold meetings of the undergraduates in their faculties for the purpose of electing their respective captains and managers as soon as possible. It is suggested that these men get at once into touch with the captains of the different class teams in order that the strongest team possible may be selected. It is upon the showing of the men in these games that the M's will be awarded.

The schedule for these games will be drawn up at once, so it is up to the men of every faculty to get busy at once and elect their officers, so that the series may be made a success.

HARRIER PRACTICE

All Runners Asked to Turn Out This

The Harrier Club will hold a practice this afternoon at 5.15. All fellows who wish to get a place on the team are asked to turn up at the Stadium at the above hour.

CLOSE RUGBY GAME PLAYED AT STADIUM

Arts '18 Defeated Medicine '18
in Semi-Final of Class Series.

TEAMS PLAYED OVERTIME

Jack Farthing Won Game by Kicking For a Point During Extra Minutes' Play.

What was undoubtedly one of the best games played at the Stadium this season in the inter-class rugby series took place on Saturday morning, when Arts '18 defeated Medicine '18 by a score of 6 to 5. The Arts team were, however, forced to play overtime before taking their opponents' measure, the score just about representing the merits of the teams. In the first half of the contest the Arts players had a little the better of the argument, scoring a touchdown shortly after the game had started. The second half, however, was plainly in favor of the Meds, who scored a touch by using their superior weight to advantage. After this score neither team could come anywhere near the other's line, and as a result the score was tied at 5-all when full time was called.

It was then decided to play ten minutes' overtime, and in this period the second-year Arts team scored a ruge. After this tally they played a defensive game and managed to stave off the Meds. until time was called. The Arts team on the whole played a stellar game and fully deserved their victory. The work of Farthing, McCrimmon and Henry stands out among the others for the winners, while for the losing outfit Donnelly and Pitts showed up best.

Arts lost the toss and kicked off. Medicine's first down was near their own line, but they made their yards and further gains brought them to centre field, where they lost possession. Farthing kicked the ball close to Med's line. Sullivan went through for yards, and the ball again went towards mid-field. Farthing kicked after two downs. Med. down. Dowd dropped the ball, but Chantal regained it. "Med." kicked to Farthing, who made a great gain and carried the ball close to the Med's line. Medicine lost ten yards for offside. Arts now very close to touch line. Smart went through for touchdown. McLeod tried to convert, but failed. Chantal kicked off.

Quarter time—Arts 5, Med. 0.

Second Quarter.

Medicine kicked ball dangerously near Arts' line, but the ball is carried out of danger. Med. offside and Arts gained ten yards. The ball is kicked up and down several times, but Arts finally gains and got near to Med line, but they lost the ball. Med. kicked after two downs, and Arts brought the ball near Med. touch line. Med. again got the ball, but failed to get yards in two downs and kicked. Arts attempt to kick the ball back, but kicked into scrum. Henry fell on the ball outside on the rebound. Farthing kicked after two downs, but ball went into touch. Meds in possession close to their own line. Arts offside and Meds gained ten yards.

Half time—Arts 5, Med. 0.

Meds Even It Up.

Meds. kicked off. Sullivan reserved the ball, but is soon tackled and loses the ball. The ball is kicked up and down, but the Meds finally held at centre field. Meds gain yards and are close to Arts line. Tuehey broke through and carried the ball over. Tuehey converts, but Med. men were offside and the score did not count. Time—Arts 5, Med. 5.

Both Fall to Score.

After some play Arts bring ball near their own line, but lose again. Meds. kick up. Arts failed to make yards in two downs, and kick ball to centre-field. Farthing broke through for yards. Med. offside and Arts gained ten yards.

Full time—Arts 5, Med. 5. The teams played five minutes' overtime each way. Farthing was kicked a ruge in the first five minutes. After this the play was very even and neither side scored.

McGILL GRAD. THOUGHT TO BE ON MARQUETTE

Dr. McNaughton When Last Heard From Was on Torpedoed Transport.

HOWARD CLIFF IS LIEUT.

News of Several McGill Men
Now at or on Their Way to the Front.

Fears are entertained that B. Frank MacNaughton, Med. '15, who after graduation last year, obtained a commission in the Royal Army Medical Corps, was on board the ill-fated steamship Marquette which was recently torpedoed and sunk in the Aegean Sea. Dr. MacNaughton, according to a letter received by his brother in Moncton, N.B., was on board the Marquette on October 8. The steamer at that date was off the island of Malta, and whether Dr. MacNaughton was landed at Malta or not has not been learned by his relatives in New Brunswick.

Word has been received that Howard E. Cliff has received his commission in the 15th Reserve Battalion, Royal Fusiliers, and is now stationed at Sussex, England.

Cliff was a member of the class of Arts '16. He took the C.O.T.C. course last year and qualified as a Lieutenant. When Captain G. C. McDonald started to recruit his company, Cliff enlisted and was made a Sergeant. He went with the Company to England, and there received his commission and was transferred to the Royal Fusiliers.

Thomas F. Roach, one of the recent recruits for the Universities Company from Calgary, enlisted on his 21st birthday. He is over six feet tall and weighs at least 200 pounds, being also an all-round athlete. No doubt Pte. Roach will give a good account of himself.

Dr. John R. Goodall, Med. '01, was recently appointed Medical Officer of the Second Brigade, now in France. The Second Brigade is composed of the 4th, 5th and 6th Canadian Mounted Rifles, in which there are many other McGill men.

Lieut. Allan J. Macmillan, a well known former Ottawa newspaperman, has received word that he has been appointed to the 80th Overseas Battalion of Kingston.

Lieut. Macmillan was recently employed in the topographical surveys branch of the department of the interior, and a few weeks ago received a commission in the 59th Stormont and Glengarry regiment. He was formerly connected with the Citizen and was also on the staff of the Montreal Star. McGILL PLAYERS STARRED SATURDAY

Hughes, Abinovitch, and Paisley
Showed Good Form
Against Argos.

The Hamilton Tigers practically won the Big Four Rugby championship on Saturday afternoon when they defeated Ottawa in the Capital City by a score of 18 to 5.

In the local game between Montreal and Argonauts, the latter were returned winners by a 12 to 0 score. In this contest McGill students figured prominently, these being Phil Abinovitch, Bill Hughes and "Pep" Paisley. Bill Hughes showed stellar form during the contest, while Abinovitch gave an excellent account of himself while he played.

When Paisley got into the game in the second half he put new life into the team, and as a result only two points were scored against the Winged Wheelers. Then were tallied in the first period, these being garnered by means of a rouge, drop kick, touch and convert. Although defeated, the locals showed good form throughout, and put up a far better brand of football than in any other game this season. "Pep's" work was a revelation to the crowd, who never thought that he could get into the game at a moment's notice and show up in such brilliant fashion. He kicked, tugged and caught with the best of the Argos' back field, and showed that he was still as good as ever.

As usual, Bill Hughes was right there with his good work in stopping a number of attempted trick plays. Hughes was not in the best of condition, and as a result could not carry the ball as well as he usually does. Abinovitch played a whale of a game for a time, but he, too, was hurt and was forced to retire.

Joe Donnelly, who is the regular middle wing player on the M.A.A.A. team, did not play for some reason or other. It will be remembered that Donnelly was one of McGill's best players in 1913, and it was through his work, along with that of Lemay and Laing, that McGill won the championship. Had Joe played for the Winged Wheelers on Saturday, they would undoubtedly have done much better. He is a wonderful man for work, and is always on the go. He will probably play for M.A.A.A. next week.
